Preparation Checklist for ASA Manuscripts

This checklist is intended to help you prepare your manuscript for publication in ASA journals. It covers some details of presentation and style that will be checked in preparing if your manuscript is accepted for publication. Authors are advised to check with specific journals on guidelines for mechanics of submission (e.g., policies on electronic submissions) and to verify details on issues such as submitting blinded review submissions. Refer also to the American Sociological Association Style Guide (ASA style guide) available from the ASA Executive Office, 1430 K Street NW, Suite 600, Washington, DC 20005 (1-818 for ASA members, $30 for nonmembers). See especially section 6.6, "Checklist for Preparing and Submitting a Manuscript to an ASA Journal."

MANUSCRIPT FORMAT

- 1. All pages must be typed or printed (12-point Times New Roman type size preferred). Double-spacing (including footnotes and references), block spacing may be single spaced.
- 2. Margins must be at least 1.25 inches on all four sides to allow the editor's or copier's marks.
- 3. Use normal settings on word processing software. Do not create special characters on the keyboard.

TITLE PAGE

- 1. Include the full title of the article, the author(s) name(s) and institutional affiliation(s) listed vertically if there is more than one author, a running head (50 characters or less), the word count for the manuscript, and a title footnote.
- 2. An asterisk (*) by the title refers to the title footnote at the bottom of the title page. The title footnote includes the name and address of the corresponding author, acknowledgments, credits, and/or grant information.

ABSTRACT

- 1. The abstract appears on a separate page headed by the title. It should be less than one paragraph of 150 to 200 words, descriptive in summary of the most important contributions in a paper, and accessible (jargon-free and clear to the general reader). A good test of the quality of an abstract is if it can serve as a press release for the research.

TEXT

- 1. Consent. Do you write your text, read it objectively from a reader's point of view. Use transparency consistently throughout the text (e.g., use variable names consistently). Also write as if ("I discovered that...") is more concise and accurate than passive writing ("It was discovered that...").
- 2. Abbreviations. Generally, three levels of abbreviations are sufficient to indicate the organization of the content. See recent journal issues for abbreviating formats.
- 3. Footnotes. Include the last name of the author and year of publication. Include page numbers when you quote directly from a work, or refer to specific passages. Use only those that provide evidence for your assertions or that guide readers to important sources.
- 4. Author's name in the text. Follow the name in the first appearance in parentheses. (Duncan 1987; of course I mean it over the text, unless told to be some and the year in parentheses. ... (Citation 1987).) Subsequent mentions use the initials after initials. (Duncan and White 1978, 284-85). Use the initials after the first mention. (Johns and Kelly 1982).
- 5. For names with the same initials, list all last names in the first mention to become distinguishable (see "List of Authors" and "List of References" and "List of References"). For more than three authors, use "et al." throughout. (Duncan, White, and Kelly 1982).
- 6. For authors with the same initials, list all last names in the first mention to become distinguishable (see "List of Authors" and "List of References" and "List of References"). For more than three authors, use "et al." throughout. (Duncan, White, and Kelly 1982).
- 7. For authors with the same initials, list all last names in the first mention to become distinguishable (see "List of Authors" and "List of References" and "List of References"). For more than three authors, use "et al." throughout. (Duncan, White, and Kelly 1982).

REFERENCES AND CITATIONS

- 1. Use last name/initials only when necessary. Names (particularly long ones) can be distracting to the reader. As an alternative, consider stating in the text that information is available from the author or adding an appendix.
- 2. Begin each entry with the appropriate numeral to which it is listed in the text.
- 3. Type or print names double spaced, either as footnotes at the bottom of the page or in a separate "Footnote list" section following the references.

REFERENCE LIST

- 1. All references cited in the text must be listed in the reference list, and vice versa. Double-check spelling and publication details. ASA Journals are not responsible for the accuracy of your reference list.
